

Professional development that's online, on point, and on fire.

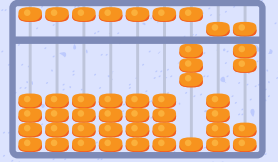

See how Adobe courses have helped educators bring more creativity to the classroom in the past year.

Our courses

10 free digital media courses for educators

357 hours of free online instruction

3.7M social media impressions

Our results

15,975

new instructional resources were created and shared

380,000+

students will benefit as a result of their teachers' new knowledge

Our audience

11,967

educators enrolled

from 120 countries

11.5%

overall completion rate

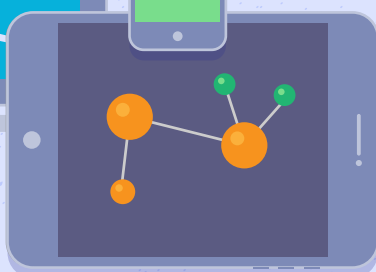

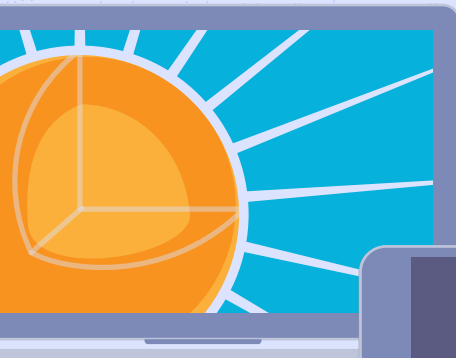

Our learnings

Online professional development can transform teaching. Self-paced online courses help educators learn new technologies and instructional design skills.

Time and money are barriers, not talent. Our participants need more time to learn and plan, plus more money for software and resources.

Creativity can be fostered online.

Peer collaboration via online feedback and discussion, as well as weekly live sessions, drive engagement, learning, course completion, and creativity.

Adobe's free, on-demand professional development courses are inspiring educators with the latest digital techniques.

Join us and enroll in a course today.

For more information, visit <http://edex.adobe.com/professional-development>